

ICELUS

Sweet Icelus
Could you please
Be my companion
Now that I am brave enough
To embark upon this journey
To the deepest reaches
Of my mind
I know somewhere inside
There's a child
I need to find
They say
He plays
In the twilight
He is all alone
And I want to bring him back home

Sweet Icelus
Could you please
Promise to never show him your teeth
I know about your ability to appear
In our dreams as our primordial fears
But I don't think
You would enjoy eating him
Because he tastes like sin
Even at the tender age of five
He is the one I still need to find
They say
He plays
In the twilight
He is all alone
And I need to bring him back home

ICELUS

Sweet Icelus
Could you please
Be my companion
Now that I am brave enough
To embark upon this journey
To the Far East
Of my mind
I know dream yoga
Just in case you have any ideas
Of turning into nightmare
Don't go scaring him
By transforming
Into his wretched kin
Who waits
For this child
Like prey
They say
He is still so trusting
They say
He plays
In the twilight
He is all alone
And that is why I must bring him back home
